A Unique View of the History of New Orleans

Did you know that in 1840 more than 19,000 Free People of Color lived in the City of New Orleans? The Free People of Color, known as the Gens de Couleur Libres, were African, Creoles of Color and persons of mixed race African, European and Native American ancestry. The Free People of Color were artisans, business owners, craftsmen, educators, inventors, musicians and plantation owners whose legacy lives on in the music, cuisine and culture of New Orleans.
